Keeping up with change means having the right core vendor

In the banking industry, change is constant and keeping up with change means having the right core vendor. But a core vendor is more than just a vendor; it's a partner. As an advisor, you're the change agent that helps your bank navigate the ever-changing environment, having the right vendor in place can make a huge difference in your bank's success.

- Choose your vendor carefully.
- Meet the right team conducting the implementation.
- Review the vendor's contract terms.
